The Best Way To Capitalize On The Growing Email Security Market

Email usage has skyrocketed and, as a result, email is now a mission-critical IT system for every organization. Unfortunately, as email use has grown to record levels, so has the volume of attacks on email systems. What started as simply annoying spam has become a serious security threat for IT departments. And with online theft and cybercrime estimated to have reached a cost of one trillion dollars globally, it is imperative that organizations protect themselves against this rising wave of cybercrime.

SECNAP Network Security Has The Solution

SECNAP is a leading provider of award-winning email security solutions for organizations ranging from small businesses to global enterprises.

Our innovations include the Email Security Gateway Powered by SpammerTrap® —available as an appliance or hosted service to effectively protect against spam, viruses and other malware.
